Fate of Cables Airport To Be Decided Soon

Harold Zenz, secretary and field director for the county planning commission, stated today that the committee appointed by the commission to make a survey and assemble data regarding the proposed airport construction between Foothill boulevard and Thirteenth street, west of Benson avenue, has completed its duties and will give a full and complete report at the meeting in San Bernardino Friday afternoon. Dewey M. Cable, San Dimas, has in escrow 60 acres in that area and stands ready to begin airport construction in the event the commission approves the plan.

The investigating committee of the county planning commission is composed of J. H. Patterson, Fontana E. T. Ham, city engineer and member of the commission, of San Bernardino; and Abel Armstrong, of Ontario, commissioner.

Considerable objection to the airport's location has been voiced, according to Mr. Zenz, who states that J. R. Shoemaker, consulting engineer of Claremont, has made a definite recommendation against the site. The matter of maintaining adequate flood control enters into the situation as it now stands and some authorities claim that it endangers that project because the site stands in a spot which is the last available tract upon which flood waters might be spread for the Chino basin, it was explained. It is claimed that the Chino basin is now overdrawn. The advisory committee of Zone One asks that the permit be denied because of those objections.

The city council of Upland has made no objection to the location of the airport and the Los Angeles regional planning commission has reported that no objection can be raised from that quarter insofar as the project's compliance with the master airport plan set forth by that body.

A. E. Weller, county flood control legal counsel, questions the advisability of approval declaring that the sites' development would cause a diversion of flood waters in a westward direction.

The pros and cons will be threshed out at Friday's meeting, the outcome of which may decide the fate of Cable's airport plan.

Church Bus Will Be Continued Next Sunday

Although the free church bus service instituted last Sunday by the Upland Ministerial Union was not patronized as well as had been expected, Rev. Earl Salzman, who was one of the committee arranging for the service, states today that it will be continued next Sunday with a slight change in schedule.

The bus to the Los Olivos and Parkside housing projcts will arrive at about 9:30 a.m. next Sunday, which is later than the previous schedule, thus giving families ample time to arrive at the churches for Easter services. A return trip will be made at the close of services.

Fontana Man Dies Result of Injuries

The death victim was a native of Mexico and had resided in Fontana for 14 years.

GOOD FRIDAY SERVICES TO UNITE MANY; CHURCHES PLAN EVENT

Observance of Good Friday as one of the religious events of Holy Week will take place Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock in the Upland Nazaarene church when services are held under the sponsorship of the Upland Ministerial Union. With all Upland churches uniting in the services, a large attendance is expected. It has been announced that some of the local stores will close during the hours of the service.

The sermon of the afternoon is to be delivered by Rev. Earl Salzman, pastor of the First Mennonite church. Invocation will be given by Dr. Samuel Hughes, and Rev. Lee Finley will read the scripture. Rev. Clarence Reynolds will give the prayer, and Rev. John Luther will pronounce the benediction.

Included in the pre-Easter week activities will be the observance of Maundy Thursday at St. Mark's Episcopal church in Upland. Rev John A. Luther, the rector, announces that holy communion will be held that day at 9:30 a.m. and again in the evening at 7:30 p.m. The church also observes Good Friday with a service of hymns, prayers and meditations from 12 noon to 3 p.m.

The 18th annual Easter sunrise service will be held next Sunday at Camp Baldy at 8:30 a.m. Rev. Samuel Hughes, of the Upland Methodist church, will conduct the services. The scene of these services, which are annually a mecca for hundreds of residents of this section, will be a short distance above Camp Baldy, a few hundred yards off the road, and can be reached by a good trail. Community singing and the reading of Henry Van Dyke's poem, "God of the Open Air" by Ruth Curry, will complete the program for the sunrise service.

The towering mountains have looked down on these services for the past 17 years and during that entire time the sun has never failed to shine. Once, in 1941, the sun greeted the worshipers but before the closing prayer a heacy snow was falling.

Easter takes on a deep significance this year with many Upland servicemen home on leave to observe in sermon and song the story of the Man who mastered death.

Upland Merchants Present Easter Fashion Styles

Upland merchants, ever alert to be abreast of fashion trends, are enjoying excellent business this week because of well stocked stores to meet the Easter demand. Shopping at home becomes the byword more than ever in these wartime days of gasoline shortage and Upland merchants have made it possible for residents of this section to have a complete selection of up-to-the-minute Easter merchandise.

Bike Owners Have License

Chief of Police Eugene Mueller today issued a call for all Upland bicyclists to register their "steeds" at the police department immediately. The city ordinance makes it mandatory for all bicycle owners to secure a license before they are allowed to operate in the city. The fee for such a license is 25 cents and Chief Mueller explains the importance of having every bicycle in the city listed at headquarters. In the event of theft it facilitates easier recovery of the machine if the license number is recorded.

Bicyclists are also asked to observe the rules of safety riding keeping the sidewalks clear for pedestrians and using only the parking stalls which have been provided.

The city ordinance provides a penalty for those failing to secure the required license. Bikes may be impounded when found to be minus the necessary plate.

That "el' debbilman," commonly known as inclement weather, reared his mud-splattered head last Saturday to cause postponement of the 24th annual Huntington Beach invitational track meet in which W. H. "Pop" Kegley's high school cindermen were to participate.

Rezoning Sought By State Along Foothill Boulevard

G. T. McCoy, state highway engineer, has asked the San Bernardino board of supervisors to make a study of Foothill boulevard between the easterly line of Los Angeles county and westerly city limits of San Bernardino as a means of protecting the area "from further encroachment". Mr. McCoy pointed out that the state does not have sufficient funds to acquire egress and ingress rights on a limited freeway basis along the highway. The estimated cost of acquiring these rights along the 22 miles has been set at $400,000.

Quarantine at National Camp Lifted Today

Lifting of the quarantine on five hundred Mexican nationals at the Cucamonga camp following the outbreak of one case of spinal meningitis was expected today after all of those in the camp had been inoculated for the disease. The nationals were allowed to resume their fruit picking operations today.

Ted J. MacLaren, general manager, said that every precaution had been taken before the quarantine was lifted. Mr. MacLaren said that one of the nationals, Jose Aguillon, 26, who had arrived at the camp about two weeks ago from Mexico, was removed to the contagion ward of the San Bernardino hospital as soon as his case was diagnosed as spinal meningitis. Seven inoculations were given to each individual in the camp.

Fortunately the quarantine was of only one-day duration thus preventing any curtailment of fruit picking.

Harry B. Harlow, manager of the Ontario-Cucamonga Exchange says that 300 German war prisoners are also being used in the district harvesting operations.

Kite Contest Interest Keen

Cub Scouts are going to fly their top notch kites "high, wide and handsome" March 31 when they compete on Lone Hill for some choice prizes offered by the Upland Lions club, sponsors of this seasonable event. The contest starts at 1 p.m. and all cubs are to register their entries at the scene of the contest.

Howard Mason, chairman of the kite contest committee, today urges all dads of Cubs to enter into the spirit of the occasion and to roll up their sleeves and assist their youngsters in the building of kites. The proud pops may also assist their offspring in flying the kites when the field day occurs next Saturday.

Brisk March breezes assure ideal kite weather and contestants are certain to have plenty of stiff competition. There will be two contests for high flying and speed and two divisions for general construction and appearance. Prizes for the winners will be sterling silver Cub rings.

Increase Shown In Population

Figures compiled by Guy Johnson, of Victorville, district inspector of the O.P.A., and by the California Taxpayers association, reveal that the 1944 growth of San Bernardino county has been greater than any county in Southern California, excepting the war industry counties of Los Angeles and San Diego. On the basis of a ration book issuance count it is estimated that there are 221,400 residents in this county as compared to 161,168 five years ago.

The California Taxpayers association figures give 187,158 in 1945 and 197,879 in 1945. The association figures were arrived at as the result of a survey of elementary school enrollment records, public utility connection records and employment records. It is pointed out that the ration book rolls do not reflect the number of county men and women away from home while in miliary service, while figurs of he association include those totals.

The number of ration books No. IV issued in San Bernardino county during 1943 was 187,158 and the number outstanding at the end of 1944 was 196,879—an increase of 10,721.

Slight Increase in Mealy Bug Infestation Here Reported

The citrus mealy bug (Pseudococcus citri) has been found this year in 70 acres in the Upland district where it has not been known previously, it was revealed today. This spread has been to groves adjacent to the area designated as infested last year.

In 1944 the pest was found on 210 acres, which represented an increase in acreage over the 70 acres reported the previous year. Because of this alarming spread, arrangements were made to liberate 225,000 Cryptolaemus Lady Bird Bettles (Cryptolaemus montrouzieri) in the infested groves last year. The use of this predator is the best known control for the citrus mealy bug.

Inspections show that the infestation within the area covered with Cryptolaemus last year is much less this season, especially where growers followed up the ant control programs outlined by the county department of agriculture. These ant programs consisted of placing ant syrup containers on the trees in the infested groves. Ants have been found to greatly hinder the work of the introduced predators. For best results the ant syrup containers should be placed on every tree and inspected periodically to see that they contain ant syrup at all times, it is emphasized by agricultural department leaders. Unless this is done the syrup may be depleted, or dry up so that it is no longer attractive to the ants. In either event, the ant syrup container would not serve its purpose.

As yet no arrangements have been made for the liberation of Cryptolaemus in the area this year. However, growers can take advantage of the Cryptolaemus that may still be in the groves by following up the ant control programs started last year.

UPLAND POLICE PISTOL TEAM ENTERS COAST COMPETITION

Entrance of the four-man pistol team of the Upland police department in the pistol matches being sponsored throughout May, June and July, by the Pacific Coast International Association of Law Enforcement Officers, was announced today by Chief of Police Eugene Mueller.

Upland police pistol team is composed of Lieutenant Ralph Palmer, and Officers William A. Smith, Alfred A. Boista, and E. E. Carter, with Officer Henry A. Younge as alternate. However there are some runners-up who are dogging the heels of various team members and if continued improvement is shown by some of the men there may be changes in the team at a later date.

Chief Mueller explains that the Pacific coast law association includes Alaska, Yukon, British Columbia, Mexico, Hawaii, Guatemala, El Salvador, Peru, Chile and Costa Rica besides all of the costal states along with Texas.

"All effort is being made these days to expand and develop pan-American relations," said Chief Mueller, "and the competition between the various pistol teams of those belonging to our association carries with it a good-neighbor policy."

The Upland pistol team and other members of the police department engage in weekly practice at the local range.

Back at the starting figure, $15 is in the food fund for distribution at 6:30 p.m. Thursday.

With azure skies today and Old Sol clearing away the few scattered clouds, it appears that the storm has passed.

Reports from Camp Baldy indicate that there has been but a slight fall of snow in that area, with rain supplanting the usual flakes during the past few days. Last Thursday was the last snowfall at that point. Weather conditions will undoubtedly be ideal for the Easter sunrise services be held there next Sunday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Line presented the college with the Barbara Line Memorial collection of pictures on display in the library, the presentation being made in memory of their daughter. They were the founders and first presidents of the Chaffey Community Art association.

Red Cross Fund Reaches Total Of $21,308.94

With a total of $21,308.94 contributed by Uplanders in the Red Cross campaign, Frank Nichols, chairman of the local drive, today announced that the over-subscription is most gratifying to all members of the campaign organization, but that there is no "let down" in the effort to make the fund even greater.

The 1945 minimum national goal of $5,300,000 has called for an all-out effort in every community and the willingness of local workers and the generosity of donors have been contributing factors which put Upland among the communities first to go over the top.

Late this week Mr. Nichols will announce the final totals in the fund drive, listing all members of the chapter—Upland, Alta Loma, Cucamonga, Etiwanda and Camp Baldy.

Dr. Charles B. Taylor today expressed his personal appreciation to his co-workers who did such a fine job throughout the Red Cross campaign and he also thanks the contributors in his area, San Antonio Heights. Easter Seals' Purposes Told Functions of the Crippled Children's society of San Bernardino county are described in a folder accompanying Easter seals sent to Upland residents.

The society under the presidency of Frank Mogle of Chino, chairman of the county board of supervisors, is asking Uplanders to purchase Easter seals to help bring medical care to neglected crippled children. Alan A. Couch is Upland community chairman.

The society's five primary purposes are listed as follows:

"To discover neglected or needy crippled children. Many parents through a mistaken sense of protection shield their deformed charges from the public.

"To investigate their problems—medical, social, financial. To overcome parental prejudices and fears which might militate against adequate care and treatment.

"To place them in the proper educational or medical hands, using available private and public institutions.

"To follow up all cases, 'seeing the crippled child through,' until a constructive program of physical and vocational rehabilitation has fitted him or her for remunerative employment.

"To find positions for those reaching working age when they have been rehabilitated and educated for self-support; thus assuring them a self-respecting place in society."

Business Zoning To Be Issue Here —and in County

Zoning property for business purposes is a serious problem before the Upland city planning commission and all planning agencies.

Considerable attention is being focused on Foothill boulevard. E. Q. Sullivan, engineer for the state highway department, recently suggested to the county supervisors that business frontage be kept at a minimum along the busy thoroughfare. Now comes G. T. McCoy, another engineer for the highway department, who asks that the county study means of protecting the boulevard frontage from the eastern limits of Los Angeles county to San Bernardino city.

Charles Eliot, planning counsellor employed by the city, has cautioned against "too much business frontage" as compared with the needs.

It may be very difficult for owners of certain property to accept the ruling of "planners" that business zones should be restricted.

The issue of restricting business frontage is to be decided before many months in Upland and in the county.

Cities and Counties Should Share In Post-War Funds

A warm legislative issue in Sacramento is over the policy of the state allocating money to counties and cities for post-war construction.

The assembly has approved a measure to allot $57,000,000 to the cities and counties on a population basis. Fate of the measure is now up to the senate.

R. Fred Price, Upland assemblyman, voted for the appropriation. Incidentally, Governor Warren is opposed to the allocation.

We believe most residents of Upland, of this county and of the smaller cities in the state will favor the policy of the state collecting money and returning it to the smaller political subdivisions. It is presumed each subdivision would have to provide funds to help in financing those projects receiving aid from the state.

Such a policy will tend to distribute post-war work equitably throughout the state.

Future Farmer Projects To Be Judged at Home

Undaunted by the fact that there will be no Chaffey junior fair this year, announcement is made today by the Chaffey college that Future Farmers will have their projects judged at home and interest in the prize awards seems to be at the same high peak.

Manifestly, our world is in for a radical change in our industrial and social economy if we would avoid these hellish wars with their destruction of ours sons and daughters, of our worthwhile achievements. and of our social-values. And it is to understand how to avoid these destructive forces and how to correct our errors that so many of us attend our Chiffey Forum now so successfully functioning these last two years.

Measuring up, I'm sure, to the high standard attending our Chaffey Forum, and likewise informative, will be Reo W. McCaslin, authorized speaker for "Technocracy," who will speak Thursday at Merton Hill auditorium, at 8 p. m., March 29. There will be no charge whatsoever.

Mr. McCaslin has talked to citizens throughout the United States and Canada, his talks expressing Technocracy's blueprint for a sane and planned economy especially for North America. Let us attend and hear of Technocracy's views, as expressed by their representative lecturer. We of America cannot learn too much concerning the views of others suggesting a postwar plan of operation. In view of our vast potential wealth in natural resources and in technological skills, resources and skills and tools capable of easily caring for the needs of several times our populations of United States, Canada and Mexico, why this want in the midst of plenty? Maybe this chap, McCaslin, has some constructive suggestions Let's find out.

Franklin Baxter.

To The Upland News:

The Upland News, under date of Tuesday, March 13, 1945, carried an editorial entitled "Full Support Should Be Given Kaiser"; therein you state that Kaiser is getting "plenty of criticism and plenty of obstacles placed in his program ..... —without local people adding any fire to the opposition." You further assert that he (Kaiser) should receive "every ounce of backing" from the people. You also recognize in your editorial that the Kaiser steel mill is no exception in bringing in many social, economic and political problems, and conclude "its coming and its continuation here has its 'liabilities.' But the 'assets' far outweigh its drawbacks."

Apparently you premise your stricture to the people to quit criticising Kaiser upon the statement that the social and economic "assets" of the steel mill far outweigh the social and economic "liabilities."

Such general terms as "liabilities" and "assets" are mere recitals and meaningless unless buttressed by a particularization of facts. The editorial presents no such particularization, consequently your assertion that the "assets" far outweigh the "liabilities" is but an expression of a conclusion.

Since you have undertaken to take to task "critics," because of a balance sheet you have struck of these liabilities and assets of the Kaiser steel mill, don't you think your readers are entitled to another editorial from you setting forth your sundry entries of "liabilities" and "assets?" Then and only then can your readers determ whether your conclusions are correct. I am extremely interested personally, and I am sure your readers likewise, in such a particularization.

Since the summer of 1943, I have kept a complete silence on the matter of the Kaiser steel mill. I have pursued a policy of watchful waiting, as I felt that it would take some time before a rightful appraisement could be made of the "evils," (I substitute "evils" for "liabilities"), social and economic. Your editorial is quite timely in provoking the public interest now, after a period of two years of operation of the steel mill.

May I, in conclusion, say that your editorial was most gratifying in giving the information that there was "plenty of criticism" of the steel mill, as this indicates a healthy public interest. Because of the times, I have been living somewhat remote from my neighbors in the community, and therefore, was not aware of their intense interest in the subject.

Otto Christensen.

One of the most significant things we have noticed showing the change in the civilians' sentiment is the fact that factory owners . . . now leave maintenance staffs behind. They have given up any idea Germany can win through and their only thought now is to save as much of their property as possible from destruction,—Lt.-Col. THE RANGER'S Corner

By E. H. KINCAID
District Ranger

THIS WEEK'S QUESTION: Can any community have a memorial forest?

THE RANGER SAYS: Yes, the suggestion has been made by many conservationists throughout the United States, but, to bring it close to home, why shouldn't Upland or Fontana or any other community have a beautiful living memorial to their war heroes, rather than stone monuments or plaques?

A memorial forest could be in your city park, or could be in the favorite mountain recreational area of the community. Perhaps a picnic ground could be made of it, or just a place to grow some trees and beautify the scenery for thousands of people to see.

Think over the possibilities of a memorial forest, and I'm sure your nearest forest ranger would welcome an opportunity to help in any such project. Your post-war planning committee would do well to include this in their plans, or perhaps the American Legion is looking for a suitable memorial for World War II. veterans.

A memorial forest would be a true expression of the things these boys are fighting for.

DISCHARGED VETS ASKED TO RETURN UNIFORMS

Discharged soldiers are asked to get their uniforms out of mothballs and return them to the army because it is short on wool, according to Brigadier General W R. White, commanding officer of the Mira Loma quartermaster depot.

The army will pay express charges; the soldier need only pack the items and ship the clothing express to the Mira Loma depot.

General White stated he realizes there is a sentimental value attached to the uniforms now held by veterans or by families of men still in the service, but added, "I would like to emphasize the fact that the return of garments, particularly wool garments, to the army supply channel will reduce the demand upon the woolen industry and thus make it possible for that industry to return sooner to the manufacture of fabrics for civilian wear."

Civil Air Patrol Meeting in Pomona Friday Night

Latest information on new educational programs and facilities for aeronautical training, now being made available to "air-minded" citizens of this area through the Civil Air Patrol, will be reported to a group of civic leaders representing nine neighboring cities, by prominent C.A.P. officers on Friday evening, March 30, at 8:30, in room 216 of Pomona junior college building, 650 E. Holt avenue, Pomona.

Courses include civil air regulations, navigation, meteorology, engine maintenance, flight instruction, and other subjects needed for obtaining pilot's certificates.

The meeting will mark the close of an eventful evening which will include a review of the entire personnel of Old Baldy squadron, C. A.P., on the junior college athletic field, for inspection by officers of the California wing staff headquarters.

Chester Rowell, writer, lecturer, editorialist—"Taking Iwo Jima is expensive. In American lives it will cost, the dread arithmetic of war can only measure them against the more numerous ones it will save."

Unless preparedness comes to mean something more than simply military preparedness, the great cry of this age for security will go unanswered. — Dr. Everett Case, president Colgate U.

There is no escaping the fact that the treatment accorded Poland — symbolizing generally the attitude of the united nations toward our smaller allies in this war for liberation — will have large effect upon the success of our ultimate plans for collective security and organized peace.—Sen. Arthur H. Vandenberg (R.) of Michigan.

George M. Stout, state liquor administrator, Sacramento—"With liquor licenses selling at $5,000 to $10,000, the levying of $25 fines on unlicensed night club operators is an open invitation to try the same thing!"

...and it's the FLAME that makes it perfect!

1 Tomorrow's marvelous "CP" Gas Range will have many exciting new advantages—but nothing can match its live-flame cooking. It's the flame that makes it perfect!

2 FLAME ALONE—quickly sears the meat, seals in the juices—really browns the meat. That's broiling as only flame can broil! And smokeless, too!

FLAME ALONE—provides evenly distributed, exactly controlled heat. And it's a "must" for baking and roasting perfection!

Upland Soldier Rescued Twice In Philippines

There is much joy this week at the home of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. McClellan, Red Hill Drive, for they recently journeyed to San Francisco where they welcomed home thier soldier son, Cpl. Richard McClellan, just released from a Jap prison camp in the Philippines. Cpl. McClellan was unable to return home with his parents as he had been sent to Camp Meade, Marysville, for reassignment. However, following his new assignment to duty he will be given a leave and is expected here late this week.

Cpl. McClellan when first captured by the Nips was sent to Palawan, an island in the China Sea, where he was placed in a labor gang. He remained there for 11 months and was later transferred to Bilibib prison in Old Manila where he remained until the sudden liberation by his fellow Yanks

According to Cpl. McClellan, excitement was intense when the surprise break for liberty came, but soon after they had shaken the dust of the musty old prison, it was found that no place had been provided to house the men, and it was necessary to return them to the dank interior of Bilibib. That night the Japs set fire to the prison and a second rescue of the imprisoned soldiers was made. The Japs, in fatalistic frenzy, banged their way through the guards and fired the prison at midnight and when the internees finally were taken to complete freedom they were still apprehensive as to what might happen.

The corporal weighed about 170 pounds at the time of his capture, but when released had dropped to 112 pounds. He is now back to 167 pounds and a physical examination in San Francisco revealed him to be in excellent condition despite the rigors of Jap domination.

All of Cpl: McClellan's carefully kept records, including a diary and two unfinished stories of his experiences, were destroyed in the prison fire.

The senior Mr. McClellan is employed by the Mountain View Fruit association.

Encores Without Roulades or Cadenzas

An occasional friendly heckle concerning the old stomach standby — Bis-marex.

Wot about those rhymes of class—that sung of acid, stomach gas, and promised us relief—en Masse ? ? ? ? WE WANNA KNOW!

Fact is I liked 'em myself, although the more erudite of the Mac Clan condemned them as silly—assinine and puerile.

"Grampaw Jones from Houston, Tex., Got 'On Relief' with Bis-marex".
Aint that 'un a masterpiece.

Well, we've been busy sweepin' floors, filling prescriptions, washing doors, selling medicine, stifling snores, making whoopee, doing chores.

When we ketch up in the store—maybe then, I'll write some more.

ON GUARD AMERICA! SOMEBODY LADRONE

Last night or this morning — someone or somebody copped our window curtain that keeps the early morning sun offen our hutch of plush rabbits and other Easter atmosphere in our window next to Atwood's. That's a dirty, mean trick, and just plain sabotage.

In my usual casual manner I accused such dignitaries as Owen Atwood, Fred Draper and The Rev. Sam Hughes, but none of these night riders suggested restitution or offered recompense.

That quaint old curtain—patched and repaired unnumbered times by Bill Dettweiler—had scandalized the civic conscience of the Village for some twenty or more years. Would have replaced it too had there been material available.

Et shore wan't no prize—more of an heirloom. Should the pranksters who denuded our sacred rabbit window venture into this wilderness of words — and, conscience-stricken—tuck it inside our front screen door, we will give him absolution as well as light an eighteen-inch candle, which should singe the fringe of iniquity from his erring soul.

Gottloff ? ? ? He's doing swell. What with a cupla tusks in front (and more searching their way through). We calls him "Beaver Toof". He monopolizes Gramp from the moment I hove in sight. We hoist him to arms and then dance violently if not gracefully around the shack—and ——if the song or the motion stops from failing energy—he starts a jiggle and a song of his own—to spur on the flagging spirits and jaded legs of The Medicine Mixer.

The bald fact is — We're pals!

Don't Draft Women, Say Kaiser Steel Men In Trial Ballot Vote

Kaiser steel men want no part of the women-draft idea. However, whether from patriotism or the chance to get a change of scenery, the women seem to favor the idea.

In a recent straw vote to determine KCI personnel reaction to the proposed women draft, the men voted 28 to 7 as being opposed to the idea. Single women favored the proposition 30 to six, while married women were not quite so strong in voting their approval 26 to 12. A poll of company nurses found five in favor and three opposed to the idea.

The question asked read "Would you be in favor of a compulsory war-time draft of single women through a selective service system similar to the present one for men?"

NEWS of MEN AND WOMEN IN UNIFORM

BATTLEFIELD PROMOTION

Mr. and Mrs. Fred S. Crawford, 706 North First avenue, have received word that their son, Sgt. Gerald Crawford, was given a battlefield promotion to second lieutenant on February 23, 1945. The young man has been in Germany with the fighting forces but a letter received this week states he is stationed now with the medical administration corps and not as near the front lines as when he received his fine promotion. In a recent issue of The Snorter, Kaiser company publication at Fontana, where Mr. Crawford is employed as general mechanical foreman, there appears a large size reproduction of Mr. Crawford holding a photo of Herr Schikelgruber, the "valiant" corporal. The photo is badly punctured with bullet holes. The picture was sent home to his parents by Lt. Crawford, who took it from the walls of Gestapo headquarters in Paris.

MINIKEL DECORATED

Technical Sergeant Eugene A Minikel, of Cucamonga, is top turret gunner on a B-17 flying fortress fighting in "what is considered the toughest theatre of aerial warfare," the eighth United States air force bomber station in England reports.

He is in the 447th bomber group of the third air division, "the division which has been cited by the president for the now historic England-Africa shuttle mission bombing of Messerschmitt factories at Regensburg, Germany," the announcement said.

For his own personal "extraordinary achievement" and for "courage, ccolness and skill displayed by Sgt. Minikel on all occasions," he has been awarded the distinguished flying cross, the eighth air force says.

He is the son of Arnold R. Minikel, 1940 Arrow route, Cucamonga, and is the husband of Mrs Marie Minikel of Cucamonga.

Value of Cooperation In Lumber Production For Growers Cited

The importance of cooperation by its citrus grower members in making it possible to conduct business in a satisfactory manner under difficult conditions was emphasized by P. E. Simpson, general manager of Fruit Growers Supply company, in his annual report to shareholders. "For the fourth consecutive year the consumption of lumber in the United States has exceeded production," Simpson declared, "and only through the ownership of producing facilities has the supply of wooden containers been kept adequate to cover needs."

Million May Seek Jobs After War

In a year after military demobilization 666,000 to 835,000 jobs will be lost in California with 139,000 to 406,000 of the number being replaced by peacetime jobs, according to a report by the California State Reconstruction and Re-employment commission appearing in Post-war California, a monthly digest published by the bureau of public administration on the Berkeley campus of the University of California.

During the war California has gained more new jobs and workers than any other state, with the number of employed women increasing 78 per cent and the number of male civilian workers increasing 26 per cent, the report stated.

Because of wartime population increase, return of servicemen and desire of many women workers to continue, there will be 700,000 to a million more job-seekers in the state after the war than in 1940.
